Experience is a wise teacher, but not one ever gives her any nice red apples.

Health, honesty and hope are the most genial companions in the mid-night of care.

"Let us laugh at trouble," sings a western poet. That's easy to do as long as it is some one else's trouble.

A Pittsburg paper says that Count Boni is game to the core. Why not say to the yellow? Had eggs do not have cores.

New York courts have given a boy thief 19 years, which may not reform him, but is sure to cure him of being a boy thief.

The lack of mentality of some of the popular songs is striking. "I've a pain in my shoulder" is a title that would indicate the writer was something of a blockhead.

After wading across a street full of soft, muddy, slushy snow, it is rather difficult to appreciate the genius of the man who wrote "The Snow, the Beautiful Snow."

We have to admit that mice pies cause more juvenile crime than does strong drink, being often the impelling motive that drives the small boy to break into the cupboard.

For every worship that Germany builds England will build two. Britain has been building the ways for some years now, and intends to keep the job until the cows come home.

Coming events cast their shadows before. The fashion columns are full of advance notice about the Easter bonnet and the shadow is cast about the bank account of the head of the house.

The transcontinental automobilists have been too busy trying to get out of snowdrifts to explain what benefit humanity is to derive from their exploits if they succeed in getting through.

There are to be special street cars for women in London. Suffragettes will fear that in some way they are being deprived of their rights. If it were special cars for men they wouldn't stand for it.

"The best way to find out what your friends are really worth is to have need of them," says the Washington Post. And the Baltimore American adds: "This is also the best way to get rid of ideals and illusions."

A young man in Connecticut who called for a young lady with the intention of eloping with her was discouraged by a can of hot water. Paradoxically, the hot water thrown upon him proved cold water for his plans.

In view of the love at first sight explanation of international marriages, the rarity of matches in which the groom is an American and the bride a daughter of the foreign nobility seems somewhat inexplicable.

A young man who told a girl about the scheme of drying wet clothes by stuffing them with oats aroused her interest, but when she said she hadn't any oats he made a serious mistake. He had a bushel sent to her next day.

French military experts are generally of the opinion that Japan would have little trouble in defeating the United States if war were declared. French military experts thought, along in 1870, that France could whip Germany without having to stop for more than one or two meals.

The public school teachers of New York are insistent on the reinstatement of corporal punishment for flagrant offenders. After trying the new systems of moral suasion, they have come to the conclusion that, though rather old-fashioned in his philosophy, Solomon knew what he was talking about.

The mayor of Philadelphia has discovered that George Washington was the real author of the doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils. Now, some other lieutenant will shatter the last tradition to which we have tearfully and desperately clung and prove the Father of His Country a fully qualified candidate for the Ananias club of his time.

John Ryder Randall, who lately died, was the author of "Maryland, My Maryland," one of the most stirring songs that the war inspired. His words were inspired by the encounter between the Massachusetts troops and the people of Baltimore. They were soon after sung to the old tune, "Laurel Hymn." Thus, remarks the "Youth's Companion," from the opening of the war the south has been singing "Maryland, My Maryland" caught the ear of the north, and although it is explicitly false, has become a national hymn.

The proposition to furnish municipal free breakfasts to school children in New York because many pupils have, of necessity, such a slim breakfast when they get to school they cannot do good work, has appeared to many at first sight, says the Boston Globe, but the officials of organized charity in that city object strenuously and with some degree of reason to the free-breakfast idea; first, on the ground that it is not legal, and secondly that it tends to pauperization.

While suddenly alarmed people are talking about the need of reforestation, some of the railroad companies are going quietly ahead planting trees for their own future use. The Pennsylvania road, for example, has now many hundred acres under cultivation, with over 2,000,000 trees growing and seed planted for many more. If every corporation and individual with a bit of available land would do their part by quietly planting a few trees, the forestry problem would be solved without much difficulty.

Sentences aggregating 1,461 years in jail have been imposed upon a lottery swindler in Germany. By good behavior he may succeed in getting one or two hundred years lopped off.

An automobile with wings like a bird, flies like a fish and flippers like a mole might move rapidly over whatever kind of country presented itself.

A woman, says a New Jersey judge, is justified in slapping and kicking anybody who calls her a liar. But how about a lady?

WILL PAY INDEMNITY

CHINA OFFERS TO PAY DAMAGES TO JAPANESE GOVERNMENT.

STEAMER IS TO BE RELEASED

For Error in Seizing Steamer Chinese Will Give $100,000, but Retain Arms.

Peking.—The negotiations looking to a settlement of the difficulty between China and Japan growing out of the seizure by China of the Japanese steamer Tatsu Maru are making favorable progress. The Chinese foreign board Saturday approved the draft of a document in which China accepts the proposals made by Japan Friday. China will pay Japan $100,000 (about $10,000) and retain the arms that form the cargo of the Tatsu Maru, and she will also pay about 10,000 taels damage on the steamer.

It is expected that the Tatsu Maru will be released March 16. In addition, Japan agrees to adopt and enforce strict regulations to prevent future traffic in arms and ammunition from Japan into China, but she refused to include the territory of Macao in this limitation.

China will soon take up negotiations with Portugal regarding the contraband traffic at Macao. She hopes that an accurate delimitation of Portuguese water at Macao now will be secured and that the gambling for which Macao is notorious, as well as the smuggling done through that port may be materially restricted.

Mikado's Ministry Defeated. Tokyo.—General election returns indicate the overthrow of the present ministry as a practical certainty. Marquis Katsura will be the next premier. There is much speculation concerning Foreign Minister Hayashi's successor. English Ambassador Komura probably will be chosen.

PRINCE TO FOLLOW MME. GOULD. Paris.—Prince Heli de Sagan is to sail for New York, according to reliable authority, either from Havre Saturday night or from Cherbourg Monday.

The Prince was believed for several days to be aboard the ocean, a passenger aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm, or perhaps on the Adriatic, but when Mme. Anna Gould and her sons sailed he turned up in Paris, however, Friday afternoon. It has been impossible to secure from him any statement as to his whereabouts, but he has already married Mme. Gould—reports which the latter has emphatically denied.

The fact that he is to follow her to America confirms Paris society in its belief, however, that though there may be no wedding as yet, Mme. Gould is on her way to secure her family's consent to the alliance.

SHOOTS WIDOW, KILLS SELF. Jealous Lover's Crime Committed in Presence of Young Girl.

Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Minnie Heiss, a widow, is dying at the Chicago Polyclinic Institute from three bullet wounds, the victim of a double tragedy in which her husband, Charles Weidman, a spurned suitor, shot himself dead at her feet. Weidman had been a frequent visitor at the Heiss home.

The tragedy was enacted in the presence of Esther, 15-year-old daughter of the deceased woman. Mrs. Heiss, who had been ill for some time, died at the first fire and was caught in the arms of her daughter, who heroically tried to save her mother's life. Weidman fired two more bullets at the woman, and then shot himself behind the right ear. He died later at the Alexian Brothers hospital.

Weidman is believed to have been prompted to end the woman's life through jealousy.

NOTHING TO IT BUT BARK.

TRAGEDY IN SCHOOL

TWO WELLESLEY GRADUATES DIE TOGETHER.

Police Theory Is That Crime Was Murder, Followed by Suicide—One Was Mental Weak.

Boston, Mass.—Two women were shot Wednesday morning in the fashionable Laurens School in the Back Bay. They were found dead in bed. One was Miss Weed, who escaped Tuesday night from a sanitarium in Newton and died to the school, where Miss Hardee agreed to care for her during the night. At 6:20 o'clock Wednesday morning the head nurse heard two shots. She ran to Miss Hardee's room and found both women unconscious. The head nurse called the matron, but when the latter reached the room both women were dead.

The police believe that Miss Weed shot Miss Hardee and then committed suicide.

Was One of the Founders. The police are now conducting an investigation at the school. All information regarding the identity of Miss Weed and Miss Hardee has been so far refused at the school except to the police. No detailed report of the tragedy has yet reached headquarters. Miss Weed was one of the founders of the school and was recently sent to a sanitarium in West Newton.

On October 1, the day upon which the school was opened, Miss Weed broke down as a result of overwork, and was taken to a sanitarium in West Newton, where she had since been under treatment for nervous prostration. While in the sanitarium Miss Weed had been subject to severe attacks of melancholia. Tuesday night she escaped from the sanitarium and made her way to the Laurens School.

Because the revolver was found clutched in the hands of the woman, the police believe that she shot Miss Hardee and then killed herself.
